The Power Systems Computation Conference has become through the last decades one of the most outstanding events in the power systems field. PSCC addresses theoretical developments and computational aspects with respect to power system applications from micro-grids to mega-grids. There is an emphasis on modelling and

History and development of the Power Systems Computation Conference. The Power Systems Computation Conference or, in brief, PSCC was the outcome of the needs, interests of and almost natural steps seen by academics, power system planners and operators, as well as engineers, mostly European based, dealing with computers in the power system area.

Submitted to the 23rd Power Systems Computation Conference (PSCC 2024). This material is based upon work supported by the U.S. Department of Energy, Office of Science, under contract number DE-AC02-06CH11357. We gratefully acknowledge the computing resources provided on Bebop and Swing, a high-performance computing cluster operated by the ...

The electric power system is currently undergoing a period of unprecedented changes. Environmental and sustainability concerns lead to replacement of a significant share of conventional fossil fuel-based power plants with renewable energy resources. This transition involves the major challenge of substituting synchronous machines and their well-known ...

A new model for integrated electricity and heat active network management based on a dual-horizon Dynamic AC OPF is presented, capable to plan and optimise operations for different multi-energy technologies considering both electrical network and associated inter-temporal constraints and uncertainties, allowing assessing the potential benefits and available ...

The Power Systems Computation Conference (PSCC) has become one of the most outstanding events in the area. With a change of pace from meeting every 3 years to every 2, PSCC provides a truly international forum for the regular exchange of knowledge and experience on the latest developments in this area.

Power Systems Computation Conference facilitates discussions on Electric power system, Mathematical optimization, Control theory, Grid and Reliability engineering. The studies in Electric power system featured incorporate elements of Wind power, Control engineering, Control (management), Electronic engineering and Renewable energy.
