Lithium AAA batteries are not dangerous if stored under the right conditions -- between -40°C to 50°C. This increases the risk of external short circuits.

What are lithium AA batteries used for?

Lithium AA batteries can also be charged faster than other types of rechargeable batteries, making them convenient for use in situations where time is limited. It's important to know that Lithium has a wide range of applications, including batteries, ceramics, glass, lubricants, pharmaceuticals, and nuclear weapons.
