Ranking power systems in anime proves to be one difficult thing as we will always be comparing very different things. Like it is almost impossible to come up with a criterion since these go across different kinds of anime and genres. Each and every anime has its own power systems, and it is difficult to find a flaw in those because the ...

Violet: Power Nullification, allowing to cancel the powers of other Aura Colors, although only by touching the power. The final technique is Aura Sealing, which allows the user to strike the flow of energy inside someone's body, twisting it and sealing away any power granted by Aura Control for any time the user wishes, even for life.

The idea that there could be some awesome power just out of my grasp that I could manipulate at will if I tried hard enough was pretty enticing to my kid-brain. Ki is an example of a "power system" in anime--an in-universe system that explains the extraordinary powers and abilities of the characters. Several anime

Magical swords are nothing new to anime. They are a well-loved and much-used magical tool across anime's many genres. However, few stories have made such an intricate but well-outlined sword-based magic system as Bleach. The unique powers designated to each Bankai ability was both creative and diverse. The separation between the Shinigami, the ...

I'm thinking of making some sort of Power System. You know, like, Ki, Chakra, Nen, Reiatsu, etc. etc. But I have no idea where to start. Does anyone have any ideas, advice, or suggestions? Thanks.

Hello everyone. Nice to meet you. I'm currently working on my story and have everything planned out from how it start and will end, every twist and turn etc but I'm still finding it hard to think of a unique power system. I have researched about quite a few (from anime of course) but still can't seem to think of a good one with my story. Worst part is whenever I come ...

The original Yu-Gi-Oh! anime, which was released in 2000, has a power system based on a card game that lately gave birth to one of the most popular trading card games. The classic shonen anime follows a young Mutou Yugi, who is the owner of a strange puzzle that houses a mysterious soul. While the earliest part of the series saw Yugi compete in different ...

Anime's power systems are some of the most versatile across fiction as a whole. Many follow the same concept of honing enough of a certain emotion or energy to build a character's power. However, some of these systems follow a more unique path and are used as guidelines to rank the strongest individuals in a series' universe.

I'm trying to figure out a conjoined power system that could work for 4 different mythologies. Greek, Norse, Hindu, and Christianity. What I've been figuring out is pretty simple like power scaling, Forms, and move type. I'm also looking for is a way to include elemental catalogs like main elements such as Fire, Water, Earth, and Air.

Oh man, I thought about this 5 minutes after I left, and you said you want your character to control paper--a power system based on Arts and Crafts. The users are kids whose parents are supernatural beings, and their unstable, still-developing powers become Craft Tricks. Its Rurats meet Naruto, and you OC could use Papier-mâché based abilities.

In Hindu philosophy including yoga, Indian medicine, and martial arts, prana (prāṇa; the Sanskrit word for "life force" or "vital principle") [1] is all cosmic energy, permeating the Universe on all levels. Prana is often referred to as the "life force" or "life energy". It also includes energies present in inanimate objects.
