Which solar company should I Choose?

Sometimes, bigger is not always better. It's easy to gravitate toward large name-brand companies like Tesla, Sunrun, ADT Solar, or SunPower. But it's small, local solar energy installers that are often the best choice. Local solar companies generally provide more personalized and attentive customer service.

How do I know if a solar installer is a good company?

Check the SolarReviews Expert Rating system. We came up with our own metrics for ranking solar installers that include years in business, license, and profitability to rate the best solar companies. The SolarReviews Expert Rating gives you a more well-rounded review of a company than consumer reviews alone.

How do I find a reputable solar contractor?

To find a reputable company in your area, you can ask friends and neighbors for referrals, check local government websites for recommended installers, or look at reviews from both solar experts and real customers on a site like SolarReviews. What training and accreditations should I look for when hiring a solar contractor?

Should you choose a local or a large solar company?

Typically speaking, larger companies are more established and can offer more comprehensive warranties. They may also offer more payment options and maintenance services, such as panel cleaning. On the other hand, local companies are likely to be more familiar with your state's rebates and county permitting requirements.
