Every traditional BESS is based on three main components: the power converter, the battery management system (BMS) and the assembly of cells required to create the battery-pack [2]. When designing the BESS for a specific application, there are certain degrees of freedom regarding the way the cells are connected, which rely upon the designer's criterion.

Batteries are rated for two different capacity metrics: total and usable. Because usable capacity is most relevant to the amount of energy you'll get from a battery, we like to use usable capacity as the main "capacity" metric to compare storage products. Also, from our energy storage glossary, see how the two terms differ below: Total capacity ...

When your solar panels produce more power than your household needs, your home storage battery will begin to charge. The energy stored will then be used to power your home appliances when the sun isn't shining. Any energy that's leftover can be sent to the grid for you to receive credits on your bill at your feed-in tariff rate.
